RULING IN FAVOR OF PASSENGERS.

United States Appellate Court Fixes Responsibility of Railroads-Other Decisions.

According to a decision handed down by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals resterday in the case of the Rock Island and Pacific Railway Company vs. Nancy A. Wood, railroads are responsible for the safety of their passengers while in their stations for a reasonable time after descending from trains, and the relations of a westbound Park avenue car, under the impression that it was a Delmar avenue carrier and passenger continue until a passenger quits the station or depot.

Suit was brought by Mrs. Wood in the car. At Eighteenth street, as the car swept ower United States Court to recover damages for bodily injuries she received while in a railroad station belonging to the Rock Island road, after having gotten off one of its trains. She won the sait in the lower lance. court, and an appeal was taken on a writ of error.

The train in which Mrs. Wood was travelng was en route from Kansas City to Whitewater. It arrived at the last-named town at 4 o'clock upon a dark, foggy morn-ing. Mrs. Wood descended in the light af-forded by the train and entered the station. There was no agent or employe of the road in the place, and when the train pulled out the building and platform were in total darkness. While moving about she fell off the piatform and sustained internal a reply was received stating that no person of the description given was at that institution. The morgue and other city institutions were visited, but no trace of the missing man was received.

Yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock, Mrs. Vardell board a knock or the door and In her testimony at the trial, Mrs. Wood said that before the train arrived at Whitewater she had concluded to remain at the station all night, instead of seeking the residence of her friend, whom she was going to visit. The railroad, upon this mental resolution of the plaintiff to remain at the station until daylight, based the contention that the relation of passenger and carrier ended. It held that the mental contention that the relation of passenger and carrier ended. It held that the mental act of Mrs. Wood released it from responsibility as a carrier.

The Circuit Court did not take this view of the case and passed judgment in favor of Mrs. Wood. The Court of Appeals concurred with this rolling, holding that a passenger had a right to remain in a station and enjoy the privilege and protection of the railway for a reasonable length of time after leaving a train.

The verdict of the lower court was affirmed in the case of Western Assurance Company of Toronto vs. C. S. Polk. Suit was filed against C. S. Polk by the plaintiff in error to recover $2.26.75, for alleged negligence in transacting business for the plaintiff. At the trial Polk claimed that he never contracted to carry on the work for the assurance company.

Other decisions handed down yesterday were: M. B. Johnson, F. C. Bemis, W. C. Laugenau and Howard W. White vs. Daniel Munday, reversed and remanded; Atoka Coal and Mining Company vs. H. W. Adams et al., affirmed; Southwestern Coal and Improvement Company et al. vs. Hyram Y. McBride, affirmed; Ora Haley vs. Annie Kilpatrick, administrator of the estate of James G. Kilpatrick, deceased, affirmed; Denison and Northern Railway Company vs. Alton Mercantile Company et al., reversed and remanded; J. M. Daugherty, George B. Perryman and L. C. Perryman vs. A. M. CALIFORNIA HAS 1,485,053.

Population of State Has Increased 276,923, or 22.9 Per Cent.

276,923, or 22.9 Per Cent.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The population of the State of California was announced by the Census Bureau to-day. The population of the State in 1900 is 1,485,635, as against 1,-208,130 in 1830, representing increase since 1830 of 276,923, or 219 per cent.

A small portion of this increase is due to the fact that there were 5,107 Indians and 161 other persons, or a total of 5,285 persons, on Indian reservations, etc., in California, who were specially enumerated in 1830 under the provisions of the census act, but were not included in the general population of the State at that census.

The population of the State in 1850 was 22,-301, and from 1850 to 1850 it increased 287,-337, or 319,3 per cent, showing a total population in 1890 of 379,291. During the decade from 1860 to 1850, the increase was only 189,-22, or 47,4 per cent, but for each of the three succeeding decades the numerical increase has been much greater, though the percentage of increase for the last two decades has declined.

The population of California in 1990 is more than sixteen times as large as that given for 1850, the first census in which the population of the State appears.

The total land surface of California is approximately 15,590 square miles, the givenage number of persons to the square mile at the censuses of 1850 and 1900 being as follows: 1890, 7.7; 1969, 3.5.

HERMIT GAVE IN AFTER LONG FIGHT.

The Rev. B. H. Charles of Clayton | The Hut of Francis Mendel, Which Caused Much Trouble, Will Be Moved by Saturday.

Francis Mendel, the old hermit living on the North and South road in St. Louis County, was yesterday given until Satur-day to move half of his hut off the property of W. D. Mills of Cursonville. The Sheriff gave the notice in the form of an ultimatum The alternative was to have a strand of barb-wire run through his house on the line will preach his last sermon as pastor of dividing the property of Mills from that of Mrs. Hannah Linck. Mendel vigorously obthe church next Sunday.

The announcement has been received with jected, but finally consented to give peace able possession, and began immediately to flock. His reason for resigning is said to be that he feels that he has lost influence move that part of his hut on Mills's prem ises to the property of Mrs. Linck. Mendel's acquiescence settled a knotty problem, over which the Sheriff had been pondering for ten days. Mills obtained a writ of eviction from the Clayton Circuit Court, but when the Sheriff went to serve it he found that one-half of the hermit's hut was on Mrs. Linck's property, and that he had no authority to remove it there-from. The astute old hermit took advant-age of the predicament and warned him to eep hands off.

Not wanting to involve himself in any legal complications, the Sheriff referred the matter to his attorney, John W. Mc-Elhinny. The latter advised him that a building on property could be classed as real estate, and that if Mendel refused to leave that part that was on Mills's premises that he could evict him from it and deliver possession to Mills.

Accordingly, the Sheriff prepared to serve the writ. With his deputy, J. Osborne, Mills and Surveyor William Eibring, he went to the place yesterday morning and demanded possession. Mendel became excited and attempted to demolish Eibring's Instruments with a club. The Sheriff seized him, but the old man struggled furiously. He was finally overpowered. He then asked permission to go into his hut, and Deputy Osborne was sent with him to prevent him getting a gun. Accordingly, the Sheriff prepared to serve gun.

When the hermit saw the Sheriff get a speel of barbed wire out of his buggy, to run a fence through his hut, he capitulated, and promised to give peaceable pos-
